

Crown Face of avalanche on Crown Butte

This slide broke in a very thin rocky area. These are likely places to trigger avalanches. Once a collapse (or fracture) in the weak layer starts, it can propagate into much deeper areas. Photo: GNFAAC

Advisory Region

Cooke City

Longitude

-109.96W

Latitude

45.05N

Cooke City, 2014-03-12