

From obs 5/6/21: "This morning we went to... the Tobacco Roots. The dusting of snow in recent days had wind loaded northwest aspects, and created a wet loose hazard by the late morning (photo). We observed several wet slabs that went at the ground on southern aspects throughout the area (unfortunately unable to get a photo), and temperatures were nearing 60F before noon." Photo: E. Schreier

Advisory Region
Out of Advisory Area
Longitude

-112.09W

Latitude

45.57N

Avalanche Details: Wet snow slides, natural and skier triggered

Out of Advisory Area, 2021-05-10