

Depth hoar in Taylor Fork

At the bottom of the snowpack is a thick layer of weak and sugary, faceted snow called Depth Hoar. These large grains do not bond well and form an unstable foundation of the snowpack. Avalanches will break at this layer.

Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Southern Madison
Longitude

-111.27W

Latitude

45.06N

Southern Madison, 2019-12-04