

Small skier triggered slide at Bridger

Fro obs 4/12/20: "We noted a [small] avalanche that had been (likely) human triggered just north of 3/4 Rock on A-Route. The slide ran almost all the way to the cat road in the bowl. I found variable conditions on the ridge, from about 4 inches of light density snow, to wind slab up 3ft. thick and punchy..." Photo: M. Standal

Advisory Region
Bridger Range

Longitude

-110.92W

Latitude

45.82N

Avalanche Details: Wind slabs, cracking and dry loose avalanches Bridgers

Bridger Range, 2020-04-13