

Soft slab avalanche on side hill

Doug intentionally triggered this wind-loaded sidehill. Weak, faceted snow broke under a 1' deep soft slab of windblown snow. Small avalanches like this are indicators of instability on bigger slopes. These conditions can be found throughout the southern Gallatin, southern Madison, Lionhead and Centennial Ranges. Photo: GNFAAC

Advisory Region
Centennial Range

Avalanche Details: Small, intentionally triggered slide

Centennial Range, 2020-12-16